

2017-18 REPORT TO THE COMMUNITY

IMPROVING PEOPLE'S LIVES THROUGH LIFELONG LEARNING

LETTER FROM THE COLLEGE PRESIDENT

Bob Mohrbacher, Ed.D.
Centralia College President

In the spring of 2018, Centralia College had its regularly scheduled visit from the accreditors, The Northwest Commission on Colleges and Universities (NWCCU). We were very happy to have the college's accreditation renewed for another seven-year cycle. As part of the evaluation process, the evaluators make recommendations about areas where the college could improve. They also give commendation for areas where the performance of the college is exemplary. I thought that you might be interested in one commendation in particular:

“The evaluation committee commends the college for its significant community support generated through the Centralia College Foundation.”

NWCCU evaluators visit colleges in a seven-state region. They see all types of institutions, most of which have their own foundations. With this in mind, they singled out the Centralia College Foundation as being an exemplary partnership between the college and the community. While we are very proud of this recognition from NWCCU, we are even more proud of our relationship with you—our alumni, donors, and community partners. Thank you for your ongoing support, and we look forward to working with you and for you in the year ahead.

LETTER FROM THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Peter Abbarno
Board of Directors, President

If you attended any local high school scholarship nights over the past 30 years, you heard us say “the Centralia College Foundation was formed in 1982 with only $50 and a handshake.” That is all true and we are proud of our humble beginning. While our mission has not changed, our financial goals to support students, faculty, and the college has grown. The Foundation has come a long way in 35 years and the Foundation Board set the lofty goal of having $25 million in assets by 2025.

The Centralia College Foundation is a non-profit 501(c)(3) organization that raises funds for the sole purpose of investing in our students and the college. In turn, the Foundation's investments raise the quality of education for our students and quality of life for our community. The Foundation does this by providing scholarship assistance, recognition to our faculty and staff, development and enhancement of educational programs and capital projects.

In 2018-19, the Centralia College Foundation is awarding more than $750,000 worth of scholarships to 342 students. Our goal in 2018-19, is to raise $700,000, grow our investments, and provide a top quality college education right here in Centralia.

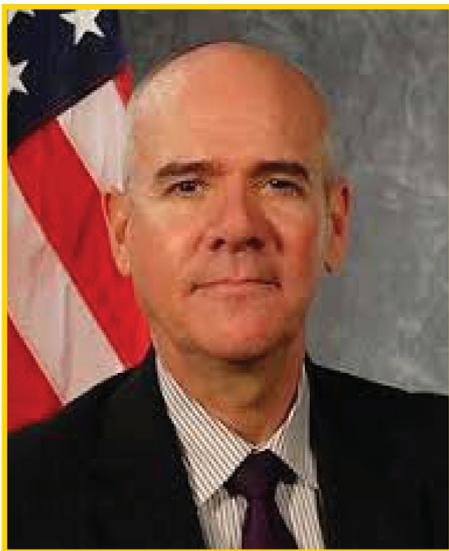

A quality education is synonymous with quality faculty and staff. In addition to funding research projects, the Foundation awards exceptional faculty and staff for their contribution in the classroom, on campus, and in the community. This year's winners, Preston Kiekel and David Peterson, had a tremendous impact on our students and the Foundation appreciated their continued efforts.

The Foundation also encourages innovation on campus and throughout our community. This year, the Foundation continued its support of Capstone Projects and partnered with the Orin Smith Family Foundation and the Lewis County Economic Development Council on the new Smart Tank competition. The Foundation encourages creativity and a lifelong pursuit of learning.

I am proud and honored to serve as the Foundation Board president and highlight our successful history and exciting future. We look forward to continuing the tradition of having a positive impact on our students, the college, and the community.

2018 DISTINGUISHED ALUMNUS

The Centralia College Foundation was honored to select Robert Dowling, a 1979 attendee of Centralia College, as the 2018 Distinguished Alumnus.

Dowling, a Lewis County native, attended Centralia College for one year before transferring to Central Washington University and Washington State University, where he ultimately earned his bachelor's degrees in political science and law and justice and his master's degree in criminal justice.

After graduating, Dowling worked 13 years as a US Special Agent for the Naval Criminal Investigative Service (NCIS), for which he served as Counterintelligence Director to the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency, supported Operation Desert Shield/Desert Storm, provided travel security to United Nations and NATO missions in Europe, and served as a Senior Special Agent worldwide.

From 2002-04, he served as a Federal Air Marshal and as a senior representative on the FBI National Joint Terrorism

Task Force. In 2004-06, he served as a Senior Special Agent assigned to the FBI National Joint Terrorism Task Force and served on the President's National Infrastructure Protection Plan. He also cofounded a national, web-based government portal to share real-time tactical information between law enforcement agencies at all levels.

After his time in government service, he provided full-time security protection for the Gates Family in Seattle before becoming a security consultant and contractor for Tactical, LLC. in Virginia in 2006. As part of his work, he invented a web-based security portal aimed at predicting and preventing school shootings.

In 2015, he founded Tactical Institute, a real-time social media monitoring service staffed by combat-wounded veterans. His Washington, D.C.-based company, for which he now serves as president, monitors the internet and notifies law enforcement agencies of global threats of crime and terrorism. His work has been featured in the Washington Post and several cyber technology journals.

"What a great surprise and honor," Dowling said of his selection as 2018 Distinguished Alumnus. "I have such fond memories of my year at what was then Centralia Community College, as well as the professors and classes that have helped shape my future."

Dowling was the featured speaker at the commencement ceremony June 15. His sister, Laura Dowling, was the 2013 Distinguished Alumna.

Leave a Living Legacy

Your legacy gift develops our community leaders today and in years to come while supporting the values that mean the most to you. With careful planning, you can provide for your loved ones and establish a legacy of education.

You can give in a variety of ways, including through a bequest, will or Revocable Living Trust, through beneficiary donations (such as retirement plans and life insurance policies), as well as through real estate, annuities, and Charitable Remainder Trusts or Charitable Lead Trusts.

For more information on how you can invest in the future of Centralia College and its students, please contact the Foundation at 360-623-8942.

CAPSTONE DAY IS HUGE SUCCESS

Nearly 50 student projects were showcased June 8 at the sixth annual Centralia College Capstone Presentation Day. A Capstone Project is a student's culminating project. It is meant to incorporate their learning with a practical application.

For Capstone Presentation Day, members of the community were invited to campus to view the presentations and projects, meet the students, hear talks on a variety of topics, and celebrate academic excellence.

This year, the Centralia College Foundation provided 15 students just under $5,000 for their projects. This is the fourth year the Foundation has provided funding for Capstone projects.

"The Foundation is very happy to provide funding for the Capstone event and the students producing Capstone projects," said Christine Fosset, Foundation director. "This program allows students to take their quality classroom experience and expand on that learning with a project that goes above the requirements of the coursework. The breadth and quality of the students' work is really impressive."

This year's projects included:

- A smart mailbox system to secure mail
- A mineral ID app
- Posters and newsletters about children's health issues
- A study of the toxicity of silver particles on brine shrimp
- An automated small batch brewery system
- A tree-ring analysis of a Douglas Fir from the 1962 Seattle World's Fair
- A panel of English 102 students presenting their research papers

Students can typically begin applying for next year's Capstone funding in January.

SCHOLARSHIP TESTIMONIALS

Stacey Daniels - Business

First Interstate Bank Endowed Scholarship

In order for me to be able to grow and be successful, I was learning that it was going to take more education than I had. Even though I have lots of experience, that was not going to be enough... Thank you for being a part of making my hopes and dreams to get a little bit closer.

Sarah Horton - Business

Earnest C. and Edith C. Driscoll Scholarship

Even though this path has had its challenges, I am so glad that I made the decision to return to school, particularly Centralia College. I have had the good fortune of having phenomenal instructors that I know are there to help me succeed and I have learned so much.

Autumn Alegria - Business

Estella LittellKorsgen & Bernice Warner Little Endowed Scholarship

Thank you so much for giving me this opportunity to continue my education at Centralia College. Getting a higher education degree has always been a goal for me, one that's been jeopardized by my lack of savings to devote to the pursuit. This scholarship will allow me to use less of my savings on paying for tuition, which in turn will allow me to continue working to pay for future quarters.

Angela Heaton - Nursing

Virgil & Laura Barner Ward Endowment Scholarship

Receiving this scholarship will allow me to reduce the hours I work at my job and devote more time to studies. The financial impact of college can become overwhelming and your wonderful gift to me is greatly appreciated.

Nicholas Bingley - Business

Rob Fuller Endowed Scholarship

It means a lot to know that there are individuals who believe that I can make a difference and are willing to aid me in my endeavors to better myself and change my economic position...I am truly excited to see what the future holds in store.

THE TRAILBLAZER BOOSTER CLUB IS LOOKING FOR PEOPLE WHO CARE ABOUT PROMOTING STUDENT SUCCESS THROUGH THE COLLEGE'S ATHLETIC PROGRAM.

Your support means you will enjoy the thrills of exciting college sporting events and know that you are providing needed financial support for student athletes.

Our quality athletic program depends on scholarships and community support. You can share in the success of the college's athletic program through your individual membership in the Centralia College Booster Club. A minimum of only $25 (no maximum) makes you an important part of this outstanding collegiate program.

ATHLETIC SCHOLARSHIP ENDOWMENT FUND

The Centralia College Booster Club Athletic Scholarship Endowment Fund was established in 1989-90. Income from this fund provides tuition support for student-athletes. Your generous gift to the Booster Club Endowment Fund opens doors of educational opportunity for athletes who will benefit from financial assistance as they pursue their educational dreams.

The Booster Club's top priority is to make it possible for student-athletes to compete in sports and in the classroom. Your donations help make that support possible.

BLUE & GOLD CLUB

You can be part of our Blue and Gold Club by sponsoring your sport – and perhaps an individual athlete – for an entire season. For just $1,000 a year you can provide the scholarships our deserving student-athletes so deeply need.

For details on this vital, lasting gift to the game you enjoy most, contact Bob Peters, 360-623-8926, bob.peters@centralia.edu.

As a member of the
TRAILBLAZER BOOSTER CLUB,
you receive the following benefits:

CENTRALIA COLLEGE OFFERS FOUR BACHELOR'S PROGRAMS

Programs in Applied Management (BAS-AM), Diesel Technology (BAS-DT), Information Technology: Application Development (BAS-IT:AD), and Teacher Education (BAS-TE) are available with new cohorts starting every fall quarter.

Each degree is designed to prepare students with current skills in industries that have in-demand employment opportunities.

BAS-AM provides graduates the training needed to succeed in management positions in a wide range of businesses and industries. This program is entering the seventh year and has over 100 graduates. Many graduates have earned promotions, started their own businesses, found new employment at higher wages, or pursued graduate degrees

BAS-DT prepares graduates for careers in diesel technologies and combines advanced technical skills with management skills to qualify for jobs as entry-level technicians, managers, and/or progress to management positions. The strong connections of the faculty to the industry provide a strong opportunity for students to tour various businesses and meet prospective employers.

BAS-IT:AD is designed to ensure graduates have a strong technical foundation in application and software development. Students work in teams as application developers and designers to manager IT projects, and prepare software documentation.

BAS-TE is designed for the community to "grow their own" teachers by ensuring graduates have a firm foundation in teaching, and training specific to elementary and special education. The hands-on classes provide application of the theory that teachers need to effectively engage and teach our children. This is a new program beginning the second year.

Each program is unique in the skills provided. However, all programs offer high-quality education at a low-cost and the ability to remain in the community while earning a bachelor's degree.

Previous two-year graduates or new to education community members are encouraged to contact the college for more information at bachelors@centralia.edu or visit our website at bachelors.centralia.edu.

GRANT EXPANDS OPPORTUNITIES IN EAST COUNTY

Development has helped Centralia College East meet a local need in eastern Lewis County – the need for entry-level health care employees including Certified Nursing Assistants (CNAs) and Home Care Aides (HCAs).

The Upskill/Backfill Rural Health Care Demonstration Project is designed to work with local employers to identify and meet the needs for entry level health care employees. Partners on this effort include Morton General Hospital and Heritage House Assisted Living and Memory Care.

Tangible results of this effort to date include:

- Recruiting and training an instructor
- Developing an Upskill/Backfill scholarship process
- Completion of two Nursing Assistant Certification classes, with another planned for winter 2019
- Development of a Home Care Aide Certification course which will be launched fall quarter
- Hosting a Rural Health Care Education and Career Fair
- Developing partnerships with in-home care organizations serving eastern Lewis County

The courses are being set up as I-BEST opportunities, which means they are taught by a team of teachers, with one covering nursing content and the other instructor covering academic skills, such as note-taking, test-taking, study skills, resume development, interview skills and more.

The hope is to not only provide skilled applicants to meet local employer needs, but also to continue offering NAC and HCA courses on a regular schedule, beyond the life of the grant.

SPORTS PROGRAMS EARN BRAGGING RIGHTS

The Sports Programs Office has seen many accomplishments with its teams and players in the last year.

- In 2018, our teams had 11 sophomores maintain a GPA of 3.25 to garner the NWAC Academic Excellence Award.
- The women's volleyball team qualified for the NWAC Championship Tournament for the first time since 1996.
- The women's and men's basketball teams both qualified for the NWAC Championship.
- The baseball team made it to the NWAC Regionals.
- We hired Cody Atkinson as Head Baseball Coach. Coach Cody comes to us with plenty of energy, enthusiasm, and experience and is already recruiting for the 2019-21 seasons!
- Another point of pride was during the Seattle to Portland Classic, where we had an impressive 170 volunteers who clocked 700 man-hours!

CC PROFESSOR'S BOOK EARNS HIGH PRAISE

For two years, Matt Young has been one of Centralia College's most popular English and creative writing instructors. His classes are tough, but he's energetic and the students adore him.

But, since his memoir, Eat the Apple, was released earlier this year, another side of Young has been revealed, one that includes gritty and disturbing details from his three tours in Iraq as an infantryman in the Marines Corps. He admits that, at points in the book, he's "not a good person," but confronting that truth was important to his recovery.

"It was traumatic recounting it," he said. "You think it's going to be like therapy, but I'm not a mental health professional and recounting those experiences was difficult. I was confronting the reality of who I was. There's a hero narrative in the media that keeps being repeated. I didn't have that experience and I thought that different perspective needed to be shared."

The book has received glowing reviews in the national media. It's been praised for its honesty and its frank handling of difficult and taboo subjects. Young was just 18 when he enlisted in the Marines. Much of the book is about navigating early manhood in a warzone.

While Young admits it's often "awkward" when his students read the book and know intimate details of his private, early life, he's been humbled by the public's reaction overall.

"The unexpected part was being embraced by most veterans and them being happy with the level of honesty in the book," he said. "I've been writing opinion pieces around the #MeToo movement and masculinity, and I've received a lot of support from people who have read the book."

In addition to teaching classes at Centralia College, Young has been making public appearances across the country in support of the book and is working through the early phases of a novel and another memoir, one that focuses on his recovery, adoption, and meeting his birth family.

"I really enjoy teaching the process of writing," he said. "I've been teaching for five years and I tend to think about it like an academic. But, I still get excited about the nuances of composition."
