LETTER FROM THE COLLEGE PRESIDENT

We are excited to get started on another great year at Centralia College. We have a lot of work ahead of us this year, but we are focused on continuing to increase student success. I do want to take a moment to draw a couple of items to your attention.

First, the Washington Community and Technical College system was recently ranked number 1 in the nation in a study sponsored by WalletHub, a consumer credit agency. Their researchers looked at a number of factors, including educational outcomes, career outcomes, and college costs and financing options. When they crunched all of the numbers, Washington community and technical colleges had the best overall score. Centralia College is proud to be part of such an exceptional education system. And one of the key factors in this ranking is the affordability of getting a higher education at our college. All of you who support the Centralia College Foundation play a big part in our success because one of the biggest factors in keeping college affordable is the large number of scholarships that we offer each year. So thanks for helping to make us number 1!

Second, this year we will be busy redesigning educational pathways for students, implementing what is called a Guided Pathways framework. The idea is to make enrolling in college and completing a degree less confusing. This approach is based on developments in decision science, and we will be working to make it easier than ever for students to understand what their options are, how to meet degree requirements, and to make good decisions about their career goals or transfer options. As we work through this new framework, we will continue to offer the same high quality classes we have always offered, but we will do so in a way that makes it easier for students to determine their goals and to accomplish them.

Third, we continue to develop exciting new program offerings for our students. Did you know that we graduated our first group of students from the Bachelor of Applied Science in Teacher Education program last June? Those students are now out around the region, starting their first year as teachers in our schools, and we wish them continued success. Also, did you know that we now have a Commercial Driver’s License (CDL) program to train professional truck drivers? We started our first cohort this summer and enrollments for fall are already filling up. Truck drivers are continually in demand, so if you know anyone who wants to get licensed, send them our way.

Finally, we have lots of exciting projects underway around campus. We have begun demolition on a number of old buildings on the northeast corner of campus in order to clear the way for our new multi-purpose athletic field. This project is funded by the Associated Students of Centralia College (ASCC) and we hope to have it completed by fall of 2020. In preparation for that project, we have moved all of our early childhood education and ECEAP programs into several buildings along Pear Street. We are also excited about the Southwest Washington Flexible Trades (SWFT) Center.

This project is funded by the Centralia College Foundation and a grant from the TransAlta Corporation. It will be a 12,000 square foot light industrial building that will be a great spot for college trades programs, partnerships with local industry in order to help meet their training needs, and may be used by local school districts to enhance or expand their career and technical education programs. That project also has a fall 2020 target date.

So, as you can see, we have a lot of activity going on and a lot of great work ahead of us. Thank you to all of you for the crucial role you play in that work by supporting the Centralia College Foundation. We could not do all of the things that we do for students without the tremendous partnership and support that you provide.
LETTER FROM THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

The Centralia College Foundation strives to maintain and expand that margin of excellence for which Centralia College is known and continue to develop a reputation as an organization pursuing educational excellence. That is our promise to you, our students, and the community.

Over the past 37 years, the Centralia College Foundation has grown from “$50 and a handshake” to having over $20 million in assets. And, while that may seem like a lot of money, the cost of education and the needs for our community have also grown. Over the past two years, the Centralia College Foundation, a non-profit 501(c)(3) organization, has invested over $1.3 million in Centralia College students through scholarships and financial aid.

The Foundation recognizes that a pillar to any successful community is a quality education that meets the needs of current and future students. That means, in addition to investing directly in our students, the Foundation provides recognition to our faculty, staff, and alumni for their outstanding achievements; assists with the development of new and innovative programs; and builds and improves our campus buildings and infrastructure, like the Southwest Washington Flexible Training Center (SWFTC).

In 2019, the Foundation will continue its efforts pursuing excellent educational opportunities for all students. I am proud and honored to serve as the Foundation Board president and highlight our successful history and how the Foundation is investing in educational excellence. Thank you for your continued support of Centralia College and the Centralia College Foundation. We look forward to continuing the tradition of having a positive impact on our students, the college, and the community.

Peter Abbarno
Centralia College Board President

DAN HASKINS: CENTRALIA COLLEGE’S 2019 DISTINGUISHED ALUMNUS

Dr. Dan Haskins first encountered 10-year-old Benard Ongwae at an elementary school in Kenya. The bright young boy had fallen into a fire years earlier, leaving him with crippling scars that bound his leg. “I realized he was going to be handicapped for the rest of his life,” Haskins said.

After sharing his veterinary expertise in Haiti, Brazil, Belarus and the Ukraine, Haskins was in Kenya cultivating his nonprofit, The Boscovet Project USA. “We’ve put in 42 wells in villages outside of Kisii serving approximately 4,000 people with clean, drinking water,” Haskins said.

This led to a proliferation of other projects including community gardens, latrines, microfinance, school supplies, Days for Girls menstruation kits, and ultimately construction and staffing of a 10-room schoolhouse.

Haskins was well-equipped for the challenge. The 1971 Rochester High School class valedictorian earned his associate degree from Centralia College in 1973. “It was a quality education,” he said. He graduated from Washington State University’s College of Veterinary Medicine in 1978 and began focusing on equine and camelid medicine. He went on to become CEO and president at Northwest Veterinary Group, a member of the Washington State Veterinary Board of Governors, and an adjunct professor at Washington State University. In 2005, he received the Washington State Veterinarian of the Year award. He also helped found Mixed Animal Veterinary Associates North America Inc. (MAVANA), which endows independently-owned veterinary practices with the benefits of corporate structure.

Haskins and his wife, Linda, have a passion for helping those in need. The couple used their resources and connections to bring Benard and his father to the Shiners Hospital in Sacramento. Two painful graft surgeries were required to repair the damage. “Linda stayed in the hospital with him for a month, sleeping on a cot,” Haskins said.

Today Benard is back in Kenya, enrolled in a private boarding school and thriving. “He has a perfectly normal leg,” Haskins said. “He runs and he plays soccer … I get emotional just thinking about it. He’s got a bright future ahead of him.”
Capstone Day
Centralia College held its seventh annual Capstone Presentation Day on June 7 in the TransAlta Commons building. There were approximately 40 student projects presented at the event, which showcased Centralia College students’ culminating work in their respective disciplines. The Centralia College Foundation provided up to $10,000 in funding for the projects. Here are a few of the highlights.

Gas Law Experiments
OLIVIA BRAUN
This project tested three different ways of finding absolute zero to extrapolate an experimental value.

Emergency Power Supply
AARON FOWLER, JACOB THOMPSON, TOM BURNEY, MAURICE FREEMAN
The Charge It uses flowing water to charge electronic devices. It can connect to a kitchen sink, toilet, washer, or any other flowing water source.

Unimount
JACK GILBERTSEN, NICK RADEMAKER, CEDRIC STONE, PAUL O’HERN
The Unimount is a vinyl cutter, 3D printer, router and laser engraver in one. “It’s the ultimate prototyping tool,” said Cedric Stone.

Wireless Temperature Range Monitor
RAPHAEL MONTEZ
The Wireless Temperature Range Monitor marks the temperature of anything from freezers to grills, recording it for future use.

Musical Bracelet
BENJAMIN KALLUS, JORDIN RAISOR-BOONE
This wearable bracelet-like device uses a sound sensor to take in music and turn it into lights and vibrations. “Without the Foundation’s help, this wouldn’t be possible,” said Jordin Raisor-Boone.
Rebecca Snaza

Brian Wood
Associate Degree in Nursing
PacifiCorp - Chehalis Power Plant Scholarship
Presented by Stuart Halsan
“I am very excited about my future and believe that with the opportunity your scholarship provides, I can achieve my dreams of becoming a nurse and be an aid to the community. I am truly thankful for your scholarship.”

Austin Filley
Bachelor of Applied Science in Diesel Technology
Dave Sherwood Memorial Endowed Scholarship

Thanks to a generous TransAlta Coal Transitions Grant, Centralia College will soon be home to a 12,000 sq.ft. flexible use building that is available for training programs for local industry, trade associations, community groups, K-12 education, and Centralia College programs. Training will focus on vocational and technical courses needed to assist current or future students, employees, and employers meet the needs of our local and global economies.

SWFT Center Project Underway

The Centralia College Foundation has a new building project underway. Thanks to a generous grant from the TransAlta Coal Transition Board, the foundation is constructing the Southwest Washington Flexible Training Center (SWFT Center). The project is on-track to open for instruction in the fall of 2020. This building will provide classroom and hands-on instruction space for local trade programs, industry training, K-12 education, and Centralia College courses.

Fundraising is underway for a forestry simulator and other equipment that will be utilized in this building and will also be used in the college’s upcoming mobile trades lab.

Leave a Legacy

By adding the Centralia College Foundation to your will you can provide benefits to your loved ones and also help students who may not be able to attend college without your assistance.

Supporting the foundation benefits students with scholarships, supports educational programs and purchases much needed equipment to expand educational opportunities.

Make a difference today and tomorrow with a Legacy gift.

Any size gift from a bequest, a will, retirement/investment dividends, life insurance policies, real estate or a charitable trust has a large impact.

To join those making a future gift call Christine Fossett for more information 360-623-8451.
